

National Bureau of Economic Research
New York City, NY Sick Leave Policy

Employees of the National Bureau of Economic Research (“NBER”) based in New York City, NY will accrue one hour of paid sick leave for every thirty (30) hours worked beginning at the commencement of employment (or April 1, 2014, whichever is later), up to a maximum of fifty-six (56) hours of paid sick leave per calendar year.

Paid sick leave that is earned under this policy may be used in the event of (a) the employee’s illness or need for preventive medical care, (b) an eligible family member’s illness or need for preventive medical care, (c) the closure of NBER or the school or child care provider of the employee’s child due to a public health emergency or (d) the employee’s need to address the psychological, physical or legal effects of domestic violence, sexual assault, or stalking. For the purposes of this policy, eligible family members include an employee’s child (regardless of age or dependency, including adopted, foster, step or legal ward, a child of a person who has assumed the responsibility of parenthood), spouse, domestic partner, parent, sibling (including half-siblings, step-siblings and siblings related through adoption), grandchild or grandparent, or the child or parent of an employee’s spouse or domestic partner.

Employees are requested to give as much advance notice as possible of any leave granted under this policy. Employees may be required to provide documentation for any leave that exceeds three (3) consecutive work days. NBER will reimburse employees who must pay for the required documentation.

An employee is entitled to carry over accrued, unused paid sick leave to the following calendar year, but in no event will an employee be permitted to use more than fifty-six (56) hours of paid sick leave in any calendar year. Employees will not be paid for accrued, unused paid sick leave upon termination of employment.
